Customer Reviews

I'm sure everyone has got a story or two in them worth sharing and looking over the last twenty years of my life through dyslexia, bodybuilding, steroids, hitchhiking on L.S.D. Playing the Muppets theme tune on my trumpet high up on the tops of volcanoes throughout Central America while snorting hideous amounts of cocaine. Not including meeting up with God on the South Island of New Zealand. A nice dose of mental illness and riding a motorbike to the borders of Iran and back, while suffering from poisonous anxiety, leaving me to camp in hospital car parks throughout Eastern Europe. Self-medicating with unknown antibiotics to feel safe, and many other stupid ass things I could have really done without, while all being held together with an ego the size of the planet. After all I am a wheeler dealer chicken stealer. Yeah, I think it's worth sharing. Let me endear you into the life of one man's journey to a disturbing madness. From flying high with nothing beneath my feet other than Jumbo jet's and hurricanes, to a pack of wild hyenas chasing me down in the darkest corner of myself destructive mind, I'm no Bill Bryson! I am lucky to still be here, I know that much. Though friends think what I've done over the years is great and I'm living life to the fullest, and yes for some days I would have to agree, but other days I could sit down and cry. I don't know if what I'm about to write will inspire you to get up and travel this crazy world or to stay at home tucked up in bed, it's a tossup, I'd give it 50/50! The more I think about it, I guess I'm writing about drug abuse, mental illness and the suffering that it can bring, and the hope that it will give people a better understanding how scary mental illness can be to its sufferers...
