George C. Edwards III is Distinguished Professor of Political Science at Texas A&M University and George and Julia Blucher Jordan Chair in Presidential Studies. He has held visiting appointments at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, Peking University in Beijing, Hebrew University in Jerusalem, the University of London, and the University of Wisconsin in Madison. When he determined that he was unlikely to become shortstop for the New York Yankees, he turned to political science. Today, he is one of the country's leading scholars of the presidency and has authored dozens of articles and written or edited 16 books on American politics and public policy making, including Changing Their Minds? The Failure of the Bully Pulpit; At the Margins: Presidential Leadership of Congress; Presidential Approval; Presidential Leadership; National Security and the U.S. Constitution, and Implementing Public Policy. Professor Edwards has served as president of the Presidency Research Section of the American Political Science Association and is editor of Presidential Studies Quarterly. He has received the Decoration for Distinguished Civilian Service from the U.S. Army and is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. A frequent

speaker at universities around the country, he often lectures abroad as well. Dr. Edwards also applies his scholarship to practical issues of governing, including advising Brazil on its constitution, Russia on building a democratic national party system, and Chinese scholars on democracy, and authoring studies for the 1988 and 2000 U.S. presidential transitions. When not writing, speaking, or advising, he prefers to spend time with his wife, Carmella, sailing, skiing, scuba diving, traveling, or attending art auctions. Martin P. Wattenberg is a professor of Political Science at the University of California, Irvine. His first regular paying job was with the Washington Redskins, from which he moved on to receive a Ph.D. at the University of Michigan. While at Michigan, Professor Wattenberg wrote The Decline of American Political Parties (Harvard University Press), currently in its sixth edition. He is also the author of The Rise of Candidate-Centered Politics. In addition, he has contributed many professional articles to journals such as the American Political Science Review, American Journal of Political Science, American Politics Quarterly, and Public Opinion Quarterly. Professor Wattenberg has lectured about American politics on all of the inhabited continents. His travels have led him to become interested in electoral politics around the world. He recently co-edited two books -- one on party systems in the advanced industrialized world, and the other on the recent trend toward mixed-member electoral systems. Robert L. Lineberry is professor of political science at the University of Houston and has been its senior vice president. He served from 1981 to 1988 as dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Kansas in Lawrence. A native of Oklahoma City, he received a B.A. degree from the University of Oklahoma in 1964 and a Ph.D. in political science from the University of North Carolina in 1968. He taught for seven years at Northwestern University. Dr. Lineberry has been president of the Policy Studies Section of the American Political Science Association and is currently the editor of Social Science Quarterly. He is the author or coauthor of numerous books and articles in political science. In addition, for the past 35 years he has taught regularly the introductory course in American government. He has been married to Nita Lineberry for 35 years. They have two children, Nikki, who works in Denver, Colorado, and Keith, who works in Houston, Texas. They have three grandchildren -- Lee, Callie, and Hunter. --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Couldn't find this book anywhere - didn't know which version to purchase - Prof wasn't clear on what we needed, so I went ahead and purchased, knowing has the wonderful policies regarding returns/exchanges/etc. I'm lying if I said I LOVE the book - come-on - it's a college text book! But the book, for the price (other sites had it listed over $100) is a deal, and as I am utilizing it for a "semester long class condensed into a four week session" it's perfect! It arrived in great shape - some water issues on the inside (the only reason I CONSIDERED giving it 4 instead of 5 stars-but I didn't!) but again - what am I expecting for the price vs over $100????Thak you again and your partners for giving the deals to those of us who need "the deals" to make it through college!

This book is perfect for anybody that's taking American Government class in College b/c it has great information that will help you answer questions from tests, or help you write your essay paper. In addition, buying this book used can be cheaper than renting it used in your college bookstore (well, it was for me), so that's another good thing about it (plus, the used conditions can be pretty damn good too). However, make sure to check if this edition will still be useful for your class since colleges love to "update" books so that you buy the next edition. Overall, I recommend this book for anybody looking for this edition to buy (make sure to buy it used though b/c it's way cheaper that way)

I bought this for my smart son for a high school AP class and he said it served it's purpose. But overall in better than good condition, a lot better than purchasing brand new.... I love !!!!

Not a textbook, but lose unbound pages that had to be put into a binder. Some of the holes are ripped out where someone else had it in a binder before. Disappointed for $109.

No, this book is not meet my expectation. It is wrong edition, I have a hard time to follow up with the instructor because all different pages and chapters. I don't want to ship back, waste time, my semester started already. So I think I am done for order books online!

A+

This book was from a required readinglist for an undergraduate political science course. Don't have a review for the content yet.

Got it, good to go. :)
