In Praise Of Hands: The Art Of Fine Jewelry At Van Cleef & Arpels

Synopsis

A trip to the discovery of jewelery manufacturing. Founded in Paris in 1896, Van Cleef & Arpels is perhaps the most renowned maison of fine jewelery in the world. The book reveals for the first time the secrets of the Mains d'Or that make every piece by Van Cleef & Arpels a unique jewel. The human hand takes pride in its work, and with this book, Van Cleef & Arpels wish to pay homage to all those skilled and knowledgeable hands whose humility and selflessness make it possible for jewelery to exist. It is a life force, transmitted by jewelers, setters, polishers, and all those who are daily confronted by age-old and precious materials: shaping, transforming, and exalting them without ever betraying the reverence that a masterpiece should inspire.

“While the beauty of the jewels crafted by Van Cleef & Arpels is undeniable, the elaborate process of creating goes largely unseen. But the new book In Praise of Hands unfolds the proceedings in the Place Vendome workshops.” ~Four Seasons Magazine

I love VCA and now have at least five books in my collection, but I found this to be very disappointing and of little practical value. Instead of providing insight into the manufacturing process, the few illustrations were of hands only. I expected the book to chronicle the stages of manufacturing, instead it afforded little if any discussion let alone illustration of the complex processes involved in the design and manufacture of a piece of jewelry. Moreover, the pictures of hands covered up the jewelry they were supposed to reveal. Overall, the book merely gave a pastiche of the manufacturing techniques, without any corresponding details. This one went back.

I expected much more pictures inside, its not described this way...
