36837 SUPER SCIENCE WITH SIMPLE STUFF

Synopsis

From "People-Power Projectiles" to "Giving Gravity Grief", these 110 easy-to-do activities use everyday materials to explore fundamental physical science topics of motion, heat, electricity, magnetism, sound, light, air pressure, buoyancy, center of gravity, and chemistry. A teacher's page provides background information, step-by-step activity directions, advice on selecting activities to fit the science curriculum, and extensions. Blackline masters, a glossary, and a bibliography are included.

Customer Reviews

Popelka teaches hands-on science workshops to elementary teachers at the University of Wisconsin and has presented science activities to elementary students, community groups, and professional conferences.

Love the ideas. Easy and fun for the kids.

I like most of the experiments that it shows us how to do. But I can't find what to look under for research. It should put words telling what to look under in encyclopedia's and the inter net
